2022 New York Harmful Algal Blooms Notification and Reporting System

DEC has announced the start of the 2022 online Harmful Algal Blooms (HABs) map and reporting system to inform the public about HABs locations in New York. Most algae blooms are harmless. However, exposure to toxins and other substances from certain HABs can make people and animals sick. DEC is asking the public and trained algal bloom samplers to send reports of HABs with photos electronically via a simple, mobile phone-friendly form. After DEC and the Department of Health (DOH) evaluate the reports, they are posted to NYHABS. For more information about HABs, Harmful Algal Blooms \(HABs\) webpage.

Lead Pipes in your House? Get a Free Water Test

If you have determined your home has a lead service line, there are resources at your disposal. \(If you missed our last alert on how to determine if you have a lead pipe, click here\). Getting your water tested is an important next step to learn how much lead might be currently leaching from your pipes into your drinking water and the risks to your home. Help Track Spotted Lanternfly

Spotted lanternfly \(SLF\) is an invasive pest from Asia that feeds on a variety of plants including grapes, hops, and maple trees, posing a severe threat to NY forests and agriculture. SLF has been found in several locations in NY but has not yet spread to much of the state. One potential pathway for the spread of SLF is its preferred host plant, tree of heaven (TOH), which is already found in many locations across NY. Learn more about the insect here. We are seeking volunteers like you to look for SLF and TOH in your area. Visit the NY iMapInvasives website to learn about the project, and sign up for a grid square on the map to monitor.

Box Tree Moth Watch

The New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets (AGM) has confirmed the detection of box tree moth in parts of Western New York. Box tree moth is an invasive pest from East Asia that poses a major threat to the boxwood plant, an ornamental shrub that is a valuable part of the U.S. nursery industry, with an annual economic impact estimated at $141 million (American Hort). AGM is urging residents and the horticultural industry to spot and report the box tree moth to the Department through its reporting tool at: <https://arccg.is/1Df8Se>.

Hemlock Woolly Adelgid Management

Hemlock woolly adelgid (HWA, Adelges tsugae) is an aphidlike, soft-bodied insect, almost too small to see with the naked eye. Native to Asia, HWA was first reported in the eastern United States in the 1950s. It has since spread to 20 states and two Canadian provinces. HWA feed on tree sap by inserting their mouthparts at the base of the needles and removing plant fluids. Their feeding causes the needles to turn gray, die, and drop from the tree. Branch dieback progresses from the lower branches to the top of the tree. Severe infestations may bring about premature needle drop, reduced twig growth, dieback, and tree death. Info and resources.

Meet the Earthworms of New York

There are only a few native earthworms in New York State, which are all found in undisturbed habitats. Invasive earthworms transform soil and can have negative impacts on other organisms, including groundnesting birds, salamanders, millipedes, trees, and forest plant species. There are many knowledge gaps about these earthworms, making all sightings important. The JWORM working group and NYSDEC Invasive Species Coordination Section made a resource to aid in identification and reporting of worms in New York State.
